County approves property tax rate

By Kit Chase Senior Staff Writer The Weekly News

GAINESVILLE – Cooke County Commissioners unanimously set the property tax rate for 2009-2010 at $0.45 per $100 valuation, which is a 1 percent increase of the effective tax rate of $0.4454 during a special called meeting Friday.

"This year's budget (for maintenance and operation, $17.9 million) will raise more total property taxes than last year's budget by $1,131,092 and 10 percent of that amount – $1,089,220 – is tax revenue to be raised from new property added to the tax roll this year," Cooke County Judge John Roane said.

Roane said that the 1 percent tax rate increase will raise taxes for maintenance and operations on a $100,000 home by approximately $2.

The 2009-2010 maintenance and operation (M&O) tax rate total is $0.4188 that includes tax rates for general fund, road and bridge fund, permanent improvement fund and lateral road fund.

Commissioners unanimously approved the interest and sinking (I&S) tax rate of $0.0312 per $100 valuation.

The M&O and I&S tax rates total $0.45 per $100 valuation for 2009-2010.

Pacesetters raise $117,294 - Cooke County United Way Pacesetters kicked off this year's campaign Friday at the Gainesville Civic Center with $117,295, which is 33 percent of the $355,000 goal. This year CCUW celebrates 55 years of service to the county. CCUW board members pictured with the thermometer that indicates the percentage of funds raised are left to right,

Gainesville council approves airport lighting improvements

By Kit Chase Senior Staff Writer The Weekly News

GAINESVILLE - The Gainesville City Council awarded a contract to Lane Construction Corporation for lighting improvements and overlay of runway 17 at the Gainesville Municipal Airport during the Sept. 1 meeting.

Gainesville received a 90/10 grant from the Texas Department of Transportation Aviation Division that will fund $1.07 million for airport improvements. The city's portion is $119,000 funded through the airport budget and the earlier sale of four acres of airport property. Funds received from airport property sales are required to be used for airport improvements.

Lane Construction Corporation was the lowest of 11 bidders at $754,950 for construction at the airport.

Gainesville city manager Barry Sullivan said that the remainder of the funds will either be used for other airport improvement projects or refunded to the city.

Council members approved the Cooke County Appraisal District 2009-2010 budget and establishment of a reserve fund.

Each Cooke County taxing unit pays a portion of the CCAD budget for property appraisal and tax collection services. Gainesville's portion is $111,171.85 for appraisals and collections.

CCAD requested approval to hold excess funds in the amount of $57,463 to establish a reserve fund. Council member Beverly Snuggs, who also serves on the CCAD board, recommended approval of the budget and reserve fund.

If the reserve fund is not approved by the majority of the taxing entities, the excess funds will be credited back to the taxing en-

Council members will take action on the proposed tax rate at 6:30 p.m. Sept. 15 during the regular council meeting.

No resident spoke during the public hearing on the proposed 2009-2010 budget.

Council members will take action proposed budget during the regular council meeting at 6:30 p.m. Sept. 15.

Council members authorized Sullivan to buy of one parcel of unimproved real estate property that is needed for the Pecan Creek Flood project. Appraisal of the property was completed by Merit Appraisals for $3,900 and approved by the Corps of Engineers for acquisition. The city has bought 52 of the 99 parcels needed for the project.

Council members reappointed Don lace, Charles Draper and Jim Goldsworthy to the Gainesville Economic Development Corporation board for two-year terms expiring August 2011.

NTMC board sets property tax rate

By Kit Chase Senior Staff Writer The Weekly News

GAINESVILLE – No one spoke during the public hearing about the 2009-2010 proposed North Texas Medical Center's tax rate Sept. 2.

The proposed tax rate is $0.0892 per $100 valuation, which is $0.01 less than last year.

The next public hearing for the tax rate was scheduled for 11:30 a.m. Wednesday (Sept. 9) and the board is scheduled to adopt the final tax rate during its Sept. 21 meeting.

Board members took no action on the Cooke County Appraisal District's request to use excess reserves to create an emergency fund.

NTMC board vice-president Jim Lovett said that the Gainesville Hospital District's charter prevents voting on the CCAD's request.

Lovett said the district's charter also prevents authorizing tax exemptions for disabled and residents older than 65.

Board members not present included Don Wallace, Stephen Harlow and Jerry Metzler.

CASA celebrates 10 years – Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) of North Texas marked its tenth anniversary by planting a tree at the CASA office Sept. 1. Volunteers and founding board members completing the tree planting are, left to right, Cecil Harper, volunteer since 2001; Larry Claxton, original board member;

Judge Jerry Woodlock, founding judge; Barbara Koval and Chick Koval, volunteers from the first class of volunteers; Dianne Perrin, founding board member and first class of volunteers; Patricia Doughty, first class of volunteers and now senior case manager and Vicki Robertson, CASA executive director. To the Editor,

In the midst of media hype, tumbling economy, downward serge in employment, drugs, suicides, violence, wars, leaders on all levels cheating, lying, whatever it takes to stay ahead and be on top. Life as we've known it gone forever. What's ahead for young people? Where is our world going?
Annually Cooke county

4-H Club have their Achievement Banquet. Saturday night I again had the opportunity to attend. For people who feel leadership, devoted parents, young people being raised in homes and schools where God, family, home, country, honor, courtesy, respect for self, are a 'thing of the past', I wish you could have attended the banquet. I witnessed courtesy in greeting guest, observing youth greeting each other with handshakes and hugs, obedience to discipline expressed as the youth walked, talked in low hushed voices, youth looking adults in the eye to speak, courteously speaking, stopping to let adults walk to their tables, no pushing, shoving, cutting in lines, only youth helping their peers who need assistance.

Honestly, for years, every time I have had the privilege to attend one of these affairs, I feel like I have stepped back in time to the 1950's. "People don't act this way today!" But, alas! They do! These are the real people of tomorrow. These are our leaders in training. Hope, love, truth, honesty, God, respect, family, dressing respectfully....are still alive today! Thank you Cooke County 4-H County Extension staff, the wonderful parents, the youth and community for living the 'great American way'. Thank you for reminding me that we are ok. We still live in a wonderful world with much to be thankful for.

I take my hat off to you!

Carol Kiesel Gainesville

To the Editor,

Last year our community was blessed with the opening of the new Gainesville high school. As with anything new, there is a learning curve when it comes to simple things like how to drive through the parking lot and pick up your kids in the afternoon.

Pick up is generally in the back of the school. There are two lanes leading up to the doors of the school. At the beginning of last year, parents would stop and wait in the right lane and leave the left lane for passing. By the end of the year the left lane was being blocked by parents waiting on their children.

We are into the second week of the school year and already the left lane is being blocked again.

Many parents get to the school early enough to either get in line in the right lane or find a parking spot in the parking lot (there are MANY to choose from). However it never fails that someone will pull about half way up in the left lane and then just sit there blocking everyone behind them. So the parents who's children come straight to the car have to wait on those kids who want to socialize, stop to talk to a teacher, go back in for forgotten items, etc.

I would like to see the school ensure that the left lane is a passing lane ONLY, if for no other reason than to allow those who need access to the handicapped parking, access to it!

For the rest of us, it will allow us to pick up our child and then pull into the passing lane and leave without having to wait on those kids who are not out as quickly. This may cut down on the traffic because those of us who get our children quickly can LEAVE resulting in fewer cars just sitting there. Hey it would help the environment too... less cars just sitting there = less air pollution! If you won't do it for the convenience factor, do it for the environment! Go GREEN... stop parking in the passing lane at Gainesville High School!

Thanks for letting me

To the Editor:

Your readers may have noticed an ad in the last Weekly News for a TEA Party on Friday, Sept. 11, 7-9 p.m. at the Cooke County Courthouse Square.

Questions abound regarding TEA Parties. What are they? What do you do there? Should I bring finger sandwiches or cookies? And why have these gatherings?

What they are: TEA (Taxed Enough Already) Parties are a nation-wide, grass-roots effort by ordinary Americans aching to be heard by an out-of-touch government. The president's staff, congressional allies and media pets anxiously portray TEA Parties as "Astroturf," professionally financed and organized. I personally don't know of anyone who's received a check. The local gatherings (this is the second) have been organized by a couple of stay-at-home

What you do: Discussion, no cussin'. It's your opportunity to speak your mind, share your concerns, shape the America your children inherit. Of course, if you support federal bail-outs, socialized healthcare, bottomless pork-barrel projects, endless entitlement programs created to secure voting blocks for a certain political party and – oh, yes – a president who beams himself into the public schools to impart his philosophies to your children without your permission or supervision ... well then, you might not have much to talk about.

Finger sandwiches or cookies: Neither; it's rude to talk with your mouth full. But do bring a lawn chair, a sign if you'd like, and your best ideas.

Why: Because America has drifted too far from its heritage and is in serious danger of becoming a failed experiment. Our children face the very real prospect of losing an inheritance bought and paid for at precious

Consider our remarkable roots. In August of 1776, 56 men placed their lives on the line and their signature carefully crafted Declaration of Independence. (...)

It's indisputable that many of the Founding Fathers poured out their lives and their fortunes to secure the blessings of liberty for future generations. Though educated and wealthy, some died penniless, leaving no worldly possessions their children. Instead, they left their descendants a gift greater than money: Freedom.

Unfortunately, their selfsacrifice and hope have been replaced by greed and ambition. One need look only so far as the current bail-out program - a reckless response to a temporary economic crisis that settles a staggering debt on our children and grandchildren - to realize that Washington today is all about WASHING-TON TODAY.

It's time for us to remind congress that they are in office to serve our country; the country and the office are not there to serve them. It's time to tell the president that his vision for America is not shared by the majority of the hard-working, property-owning, tax-paying, child-rearing, church-attending, legal citizens of this church-atcountry. It's time to reclaim our servant government, our Christian heritage, and our nation's future.

To the Editor,

History and Sacrifice

When the first pilgrims sailed away from their English homeland, they did it to escape tyranny. They were escaping laws that made it impossible to worship God outside the Church of England. Their government was telling them they had only one choice in church attendance. So, families met in the dark, in secret, to hold worship services away from the prying eyes of the King's men. Some were imprisoned for simply meeting together to worship and pray.

So they turned their eyes to Holland. In Holland, they could raise their children their way, meeting openly and worshipping God. They sacrificed their homeland in order to find freedom.

But the political atmosphere eventually changed in Holland, and the pilgrims (then called Separatists) found themselves again at the mercy of an unfriendly government. After 11 years in Holland, the pilgrims turned their eyes new land.

So they sailed for the New World. In the new world there was no King. There was also free land for the taking, with room to spread out, raise crops and raise families. Again, they sacrificed their newly adopted homeland for freedom.

Fast forward 100 years. King George came to power in Britain and immediately decided to increase troops in America. How would he pay for it? Simple. Tax the Americans. The colonists were being taxed for something new every time they turned around. Yet they had no voice in Parliament (taxation without representation). As the situation grew worse, many colonists began to speak out against the King.

The colonists were willing to sacrifice everything for freedom. Including their lives.

They knew they "were endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights; and that among these, were life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

Today, we are seeing the modern version of the King's tyranny. We have an administration who wants to create endless government programs (handouts) that will enslave the population by making us dependent on government. We have an administration which seeks to control what kind of cars we drive, how much air conditioning we use, and what kind of medical treatment we should receive. And who will pay for this? You, the American taxpayer.

What would you sacrifice to oppose tyranny? A night of TV watching? Dinner out with family or friends? Attending a football game? Would you sacrifice the comfort of anonymity to speak out? Our sacrifices are such small ones compared to the generations that have gone before us.

If you are ready to protect your freedoms, join other Cooke County residents for a TEA Party on Friday, September 11, 2009 at the Cooke County Courthouse. Tea Parties across the nation have grown with each new meeting, and what is more, they have attracted the attention of many average American citizens. This, in turn, has encouraged citizens to speak out at Congressional town hall meetings. Americans are waking up and are alarmed at what is happening in Washington.
Don't let Washington dismiss us as unimportant. WE are in charge of our government. WE elect the officials and pay their salaries. So WE have a voice.

Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery?

ADVANCES IN MEDICINE LECTURE SERIES

WHEN YOUR ACL NEEDS SOME TLC.

The Anterior Cruciate Ligament is one of the most commonly injured ligaments in the knee. ACL tears affect many student athletes in almost every sport. Quarterbacks, golfers, outfielders, centers. While reconstruction options have changed over the years, there is much debate as to the best procedure to follow after an ACL tear. Join us for the September Sports Medicine Lecture as Paul Whatley, MD, who is team physician for Texas Woman's University and Sanger High School, discusses ACL reconstruction options, the anatomy of the knee and common ACL injuries. It's an invaluable lecture for those with ACL tears and those who want to avoid them. A light meal will be served. Seating is limited, so reserve your place early.

Model airplane competition set for Gainesville airport

(Staff Photo)

By Kit Chase Senior Staff Writer The Weekly News

GAINESVILLE – A firsttime model airplane flying competition will be held at the Gainesville Municipal Airport Sept. 25, Sept. 26 and Sept. 27.

The Western Region Flying Aces Club (WESTFAC) will host the event and the public is invited to attend.

WESTFAC participants are involved in the classic sport of free-flight scale model airplanes powered by rubber bands and gas or electric motors.

Racing the stick and tissue model airplanes recaptures the golden age of aviation that many of the racers experienced as young boys and girls. Renewed interest in the sport has created growth across the country.

During the WESTFAC competition fragile-looking air craft will compete in timed and mass launch events across the airport sky. Scaled accuracy is included in the competition. A winning plane will be scaled to its life-sized counterpart and also able to climb on a thermal lift and stay afloat longer than any other craft.

"Stick and tissue construction is one of the oldest forms of all aero-modeling today," local model airplane enthusiast Grant Carson said.

Carson will compete during the event with his own model airplanes and said that they are built for strength and endurance out of tissue paper, balsa wood and glue. If a plane catches the right thermal lift, it can go for miles and Carson said he once recovered one of his planes 17 miles from the launch site.

"This is free-flight and the models go where the wind and God wants them to go," Carson said. "Back in the late 30s and early 40s when people like me were kids and there wasn't even television much less video games, we played sandlot baseball and football and built model airplanes. Every dime store had model airplane kits. Just about all the boys built model airplanes. Fast forward 50 or 60 years and some are still doing it and never stopped. Some guys retired and have time on their hands. Looking back over their lives at the things they did that was fun, that they might like to do again, they started building stick and tissue model airplanes."

The model airplane clubs are organized like World War I fighter squadrons with a general headquarters and are called the Flying Aces Clubs. There are 70 squadrons of builders and flyers throughout the Unites States. Other squadrons are located in England, Australia and Canada. Approximately 80 to 85 flyers from throughout the U.S. will attend the Gainesville event.

WESTFAC was formed for the states west of the Mississippi and has 30 Competitions squadrons. are held in the off-year of the traditional FAC Nationals held in Geneseo, N.Y.

"Flying model airplanes is an old sport and hobby where the midnight oil is often burned to design and construct the craft," Fort Worth model airplane enthusiast Mike Midkiff said in a telephone interview. "These are strikingly detail-scaled models that are coaxed into dramatic flight performances. The hobby demands serious engineering skills. You can't purchase that skill. This is a hobby passed down by dads and granddads."

Midkiff's specialty is World War I and World War II models and he considers himself a premier historian in conversions to scale mod-

However, Midkiff will be competing against Carson who recently returned from the Academy of Model Aeronautics National Championship in Indiana with a first place win.

"I got first prize in the most prestigious national competition," Carson said.

Three sites were selected as suitable places for competitions. The first WEST-FAC competition was held in Perris, Calif., in 2007, the second competition will be in Gainesville and the third will be in Denver, Colo., in

'We need a three-minute flying field with wind-drift," WESTFAC founder and administrator Roger Willis said in a telephone interview. "And the Gainesville airport is everything we need."

The judging for accurate scaling will be from 2 to 6 p.m. Sept. 25 at the Comfort Suites in Gainesville.

"This is the only time the public will be able to see all the participating aircraft static," Willis said. "You'll be able to take photographs and talk to the builders and flyers."

Saturday (Sept. 26) and Sunday (Sept. 27) will be the flying competition days at the south-eastern end of the airport. The south gate will be opened to the public and the Gainesville Kiwanis Club will be catering during

"The mass launch events are unbelievable to watch," Willis said. "Flyers will line up with the breeze in their faces and launch their models at the same time into the wind. The airborne craft must turn on the wind and fly for as long as it can. The last one down wins."

Willis will fly models with 36-inches of rubber band stretched to 10-feet and turned 2,000 times on the

"We would especially like to see seniors and kids come out to the airfield and watch the competitions," Willis a new protein capable of bodies and plays a critifusing membranes.

McNew spent the past 15 years studying SNARE proteins, a specialized family of proteins that carries out membrane fusion. It is a vital process that happens thousands of times a second in every cell of our cal role in maintaining a healthy cell.

McNew's report in the journal Nature shows that the protein, called atlastin, does its work by fusing intra-cellular membranes in a previously undocumented way. Earlier research found atlastin to be a little-understood protein that was implicated in a rare genetic disorder.

"If you'd asked me a year ago whether this was possible, I would have said, No," McNew stated in the publication.

McNew is an associate professor of biochemistry and cell biology at Rice University and a co-author of the study.

McNew said that there were only two defined ways to put two biological membranes together in a specific way. Atlastin is the third way and it is the only one that requires enzymatic activity, so it is distinctly different.

McNew attended Callisburg ISD schools from first grade to high school graduation and said he is "the beneficiary of many

Family business celebrates 75 years

GAINESVILLE – Estes Exterminating, 214 W. Tennie St., celebrates 75 years in business in Gainesville this year.

The family-owned business began in 1934 by Professor Jasper Guy Estes and continues in the same location today. Estes was a local science teacher and began the extermination work part time and it developed into a full-time business after he retired from teaching.

"It's very rewarding to work for a business that your grandfather started," Glenn Ray Estes said in a telephone interview. "There are three generations in this business and the fourth generation is knocking on the door."

In 1978, Jasper's son Ray Guy Estes took over the business. Then in 2002 Ray Guy semi-retired and his son Glenn Ray came home to help with the business.

GAINESVILLE – The City of Distinction by Gainesville city manager Barry Sullivan.

According to a City of Gainesville press release, the medal is awarded to employees who show a specific action expressing respect, innovation, dependability, enthusiasm and professionalism. Medals are specially designed coins.

Street department crew leader Johnny Harp saved a man's life April 29 during a flood event. Harp was setting barricades when he saw a man attempting to jump off of a bridge. He was able to convince the man to get down at which time the police arrived to provide the man with additional help.

Harp was named Employee of the Month for September by department heads.

"Johnny has the same posor 3 a.m.," Gainesville Fire chief Steve Boone said. "He is always willing to help anyone in the city."

Gainesville Police captain Mark Brazelton received the medal for his actions while representing the city on the Texas Crime Prevention Association (TCPA) board. The group recognized Brazelton with the 2009 TCPA President's Award.

Solid Waste Department employees David Garner and John Nusbaum and police department officers Jim Bleything, Steven Fleming and Kevin Phillips received medals for recovering a dumpster that floated across Moss Lake during the flood of April 29, working several hours in muddy and wet conditions.

"These men understood that our resources were limited due to the down economy and the expenses of the recent flood, so they decided to complete the work them- a great example of cooperaselves," Sullivan said. "This is tion between departments."

Muenster ISD Teachers of the Year - Muenster Independent School District announced its Teacher of the Year for the 2008-2009 school year. Lindsay to coordinate the infrastructure construciton

LINDSAY – The Lindsay City Council recommended coordination between the city and the contractor for street construction and infrastructure work that would eliminate delays during the Aug. 25 meeting, according to the unofficial minutes.

Plans are to move older water lines and upgrade them to a six-inch PVC on First, Elmview, Elm and Maple streets.

Aldermen instructed the Public Works department to cut driveways and streets to expedite the infrastructure work. A new fire hydrant will be installed at the west end of First Street.

Public Work personnel stated they will be able to suspend work on Hickory Street in seven to 10 days and could begin work on the water line upgrade Sept. 17. Council members requested 45 days allowed for the completion of the infrastructure work.

Aldermen awarded the construction contract for the TXCDBG street grant to Jagoe-Public Company for $459,575.80.

Lindsay Police chief Scott Fleitman told aldermen that signs need to be posted in accordance with the state ban on cell phone use in school zones that went into effect Sept. 1.

Fleitman told aldermen that the Texas Spur will not be sold for a strip club according to information obtained at the time of the foreclosure.

Fleitman said that a sex offender has moved into the city and that information will be distributed to the school, church and daycare.

Cooke County History

quiet place of history

Part II

Editor's note - The following is part two of a two-part series.

By Shana Powell Contributing historian to The Weekly News

Cemeteries provide one of the best ways to peak into a county's history.

The tombstones tell of young men going off to fight for their country; of women dying too young, many in an earlier age from childbirth; and of children from diseases that it seems unimaginable when no medicine existed that could help.

The land for many Cooke County cemeteries was given by individuals. One of those was the Barron Cemetery located in the southern part of the county near the Grayson County line.

Civil War veteran John Barron and his second wife Margaret moved to the southeastern part of Cooke County where he bought what was described as "a good farm" in 1870. Barron had lost his first wife, Delia in 1863 shortly after he had become a prisonerof-war.

Sometime around 1875, Barron donated land for a church, school and cemetery. Reportedly, "the Barron school opened in 1875 and continued in operation until 1941-42.'

The earliest known burial in the cemetery was another Confederate veteran William Jenkins, who was born in 1829 and died in 1878. Two of his children, a 9-year-old boy and a 1-year-old boy are buried beside him.

On Oct. 5, 1887, John G. Barron was buried in the cemetery that bore his name. Also buried there are at least one daughter Rose

The VVEEKIY NEVVS

Roach, who died at the age of 37, and two grandchil-

A few years later, The Hesperian News reported on March 27, 1891 that "Mrs. Barron, died in the Indian Creek neighborhood, of pneumonia, after an illness of a few days. Deceased leaves several children, among them a son under twenty years of age, who is very ill and not expected to recover."

Barron's children gradually left the county, settling in other areas of the and another grave with state. One descendant was no headstone - probably

"senior editor for Readers Digest for several years and wrote a book on the KGB."

Another veteran is buried in the Barron cemetery. Will T. Smith, 23, died at Santo Tomas Luzon in the Philippines during the Philippine Insurrection. He was a member of the 21st Regiment, U.S. Infantry. He possibly is the first Cooke County resident to have died in that conflict.

He is buried next to his father, who has a stone where his mother lies.

The Barron cemetery was closed to additional burials around 1920.

The history cemeteries offer can be invaluable for telling a county's story. Special thanks to Cass Reasor for the genealogical material that he provided on the Barron family.
